Subscriptions and donations in support of the Charity will be thankfully received by Messrs. Cox & Co., Charing Cross, London, S.W.; by the Secretary, C. R. Low, Esq., to whom crossed cheques and Postal Orders on the Charing Cross Post Office should be made payable; or by the Superintendent Miss K. Bartlett, at the Home at Hampstead.

The Home was constructed and is equipped for 180 girls, and the desire of the Committee is to maintain the full complement.

The need of such an institution is apparent from the fact that there are on an average three candidates brought forward at each election to every one admitted.

The Committee earnestly appeal to a generous public to aid them in the support of the Charity. They also ask for the co-operation in the good work of every Regiment and Corps.

A contribution of but 6d. a year from each Non-Commissioned Officer and Man throughout the Service would provide for the support of a child from every Regiment.

The Home is open to visitors daily between 10 and 5, except on Saturdays and Sundays.

The Committee invite the inspection of all friends of the Soldier.

A Militia unit may be registered as available for special service if not less than 75 per cent. of the total number of officers, and not less than a similar proportion of the total number of men present at the training, make a voluntary offer, certified by the commanding officer, to engage for special service in any part of the world, and, if after such examination as is mentioned in paragraph 4 it appears that of the men who have so offered, 500 at least, in the case of infantry, and 250 at least, in the case of artillery, possess the necessary qualifications.

If the number of men engaged for special service with a registered militia unit falls below the number above specified, the unit may be struck off the register.

3. A militiaman belonging to a Militia unit registered as available for special service may not engage for special service with the Regular Forces.

If the Militia unit of a militiaman who has engaged for special service with the Regular Forces becomes, during the term of his engagement, registered as available for special service, the militiaman will become engaged for special service with his Militia unit, and will cease to be engaged for special service with the Regular Forces.

4. Militiamen engaging for special service may belong to the artillery or the infantry, and will be required to possess the following qualifications:

- (i.) They must have at least 12 months unexpired of their liability to serve in the Militia, and, if engaging for special service with their Militia unit, they must not be less than 19 or more than 45 years of age, and must have served one annual training; and if engaging for special service with the Regular Forces, they must not be less than 20 or more than 34 years of age, and must have served two annual trainings.
- (ii.) They must fulfil the requirements as to height, weight, and chest measurement of recruits for the Regular Forces, as laid down in the Recruiting Regulations for the arm of the service to which they belong.
- (iii.) They must be medically fit for service in any part of the world.

Before joining the special service section each man will be examined by a military medical officer (or the medical officer in charge of his Militia unit), and only those who possess the above qualifications will be accepted.

5. Militiamen possessing the qualifications referred to in paragraph 4 may re-engage for special service.

6. The conditions of service of the special service section, whether the engagement is for special service with the Militia unit or with the Regular Forces, will be as follows:—

- (a) They will be liable when called out for special service to serve for a period not exceeding 12 months in any part of the world (including India), whether an order embodying the Militia is in force or not at the time.
- (b) They will not be called out for special service except with a view to the contingency of their services being required out of the United Kingdom.
- (c) If they have engaged for special service with the Regular Forces, they will be liable to serve with their own corps only, unless they volunteer to serve with other corps.
- (d) After having been called out for special service, and having served for such period as is mentioned in (a), they will be released from their engagement for special service, and will revert to their ordinary Militia engagement.
- (e) Subject to (d) their liability to be called out for special service will last during the period of their Militia engagement, or, in the case of a man engaged for special service with his Militia unit, so long as that unit remains registered as available for special service, whichever is the shorter.

- (f) They will be liable to be called up for the purpose of undergoing special gunnery or musketry course for seven days, in addition to the ordinary annual training.
 - (g) They will be allowed to join the Militia Reserve, and if, at the time they engage for special service, they belong to the Militia Reserve, the conditions of their service in the Militia Reserve will not be affected.
 - (h) They will be medically examined once a year during the annual training, and those who are found permanently unfit for service abroad will be discharged from the special service section, and revert to their ordinary Militia engagement.
 - (i) They will not be permitted to purchase their discharge while called out for special service; but before being so called out they may be granted discharge from the special service section on payment of £1, provided that they give one month's notice in writing to their commanding officer, and that it does not appear, during this period of notice, that they are required, or likely to be immediately required, for special service.
 - (j) They may at any time be discharged from their engagement for special service, and will thereupon revert to their ordinary Militia engagement.
7. At the end of each annual training a member of the special service section will receive, in addition to his ordinary emoluments as a militiaman or Militia Reservist, a bounty of £1, provided that the remaining period of his engagement for special service is not less than six months. On being called out for special service, militiamen will immediately receive, in lieu of such bounty and other emoluments, the full advantages of a soldier of the Regular Forces of the arm of the service to which they belong, including messing allowance and separation allowance, and if discharged in consequence of wounds, injuries, or disability, received or contracted while on service, they will be entitled to pension in accordance with the Royal Warrant for the Pay, Appointment, Promotion, and Non-Effective Pay of the Regular Army. All militiamen, including non-commissioned officers, called out for special service with the Regular Forces will join the Regular Forces as privates. On return to the Militia they will retain their Army rank or revert to their Militia rank, whichever may be the higher. On completing their period of special service, they will receive a gratuity of £1, in lieu of the gratuity issuable to a soldier of equal service.
8. The issue of special service bounty will be subject to the same conditions as the issue of reserve bounty, except that special service bounty will not be payable to a militiaman who fails to perform the special gunnery or musketry course in consequence of disability brought about by his own action.
9. A member of the special service section who enters the Royal Navy, or enlists and is approved for the Regular Forces (including the Royal Marines), if he so enlists before attending a Militia training subsequent to that in which he joined the Militia special service section, will be required to repay any special service bounty he may have received.

Subscriptions and donations in support of the Charity will be thankfully received by Messrs. Cox & Co., Charing Cross, London, S.W.; by the Secretary, C. R. Low, Esq., to whom crossed cheques and Postal Orders on the Charing Cross Post Office should be made payable; or by the Superintendent Miss K. Bartlett, at the Home at Hampstead.

The Home was constructed and is equipped for 180 girls, and the desire of the Committee is to maintain the full complement.

The need of such an institution is apparent from the fact that there are on an average three candidates brought forward at each election to every one admitted.

The Committee earnestly appeal to a generous public to aid them in the support of the Charity. They also ask for the co-operation in the good work of every Regiment and Corps.

A contribution of but 6d. a year from each Non-Commissioned Officer and Man throughout the Service would provide for the support of a child from every Regiment.

The Home is open to visitors daily between 10 and 5, except on Saturdays and Sundays.

The Committee invite the inspection of all friends of the Soldier.
